GOOD PROMOTION

saw tears in my eyes, he believed me for once, and hung up the quilt. But I had quit siding with Joe Brown.

Now this story may have several morals, and a few immorals; but the one which had the most effect upon me was that it is a whole lot wiser to go to a little trouble to find out a thing for yourself, than to take some other fellow's "say so," and lose out.

And while we are talking about it, did you ever hear anyone say that Honolulu is the most satisfactory summer resort on the earth's surface, and then hear Joe Brown say:—"Oh, nonsense! It's hot as blazes there. Look where it is on the map! No, I've never been there, and I don't want to go there—there are plenty of places nearer home to swelter in!" And did you side with Joe Brown?—without stopping to think that there might be such a thing as a TRADE WIND putting in its time somewhere around in that vicinity from January first to December thirty-first? And did you ever go to the trouble of inquiring to what extent a trade wind could discount a spot on a map?

Well, here are a few watermelon rinds for you. Watermelon rinds and official reports are proof positive, aren't they? The maximum temperature of Honolulu during the year 1911 (which is a typical year, as you can discover by consulting records), fell on September 23rd, and was 85 degrees. The mean temperature for the months June, July, August and September was 76.3 degrees. There were only five days during the entire year in which the thermometer registered above 84 degrees.

And the reason for this is that same trade wind that we were talking about, which keeps a constant cool breeze swinging down from the mountains, through the town, and out across the purple sea. Not bolsterous gusts; but just a gentle swinging, swaying breeze, that keeps the cocoanut and palm trees waving softly back and forth, and the banyan leaves and scarlet hibiscus blossoms fluttering and nodding cooly. Nobody thinks of using a fan, nobody has the sleazebait habit, nobody wears a pith helmet, nobody has ever been sunstruck. The nights are always cool enough for a light blanket, and sometimes for two; and when you go up into the mountains, you need a sweater after the first five hundred feet, whenever you stop to rest. If you like bathing, you can have the water any temperature that you choose. Go in at seven o'clock in the morning, and you stand on the beach and think about it and dabble your toes for a while, and wait for two or three big waves to chase you, before you make the real plunge;—and you come out feeling as if you could jump over a house. If you go in between ten o'clock and five o'clock, it is so warm that you stay in for two hours, wrestling with your surf-board, until you wife and mother-in-law track the sand and the atmosphere all up waiting for you to come out and go to a pink tea. But if you go in by moonlight, you never know the temperature of the water at all;—you are too busy just being glad you're alive.

There's golf, tennis, tramping, fishing, motoring, swimming and surf-boarding all the year around; and not a snake, nor a poisonous plant, nor an insect that bites you harder than a wasp, on the entire group of islands. And then there is the volcano. A wise and well-known scientist who was over here the other day, said:—"There is only one thing the matter with that volcano,—it isn't advertised enough!" If you would just once chuck Joe Brown and come over here, you would help us advertise it for the rest of your natural life,—you couldn't help it.

Now these are just a few of the watermelon rinds—others have eaten the melon; but the crop hasn't been gathered in yet,—and never will be. Don't side with Joe Brown! Come on over and have a fine, juicy one with us.

Wailuku Episcopal Church In Prosperous State

Over $15,000 Paid on New Building—
Going to Have New Pipe Organ—
Scarcity of Carpenters

(Special Correspondence of The Star)

WAILUKU, February 8.—On February 1 the vestry of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Episcopal, of Wailuku, met at the rectory. Rev. William S. Short presided. The purpose of the meeting was to listen to the annual financial reports concerning the work of the church. J. N. S. Williams, treasurer of the church, reported receipts for the past church year as $1887.33 and expenditures as $1634.69, leaving a balance of $252.64.

The report on the building fund of the new church showed that $15,336.67 had already been paid toward the building, and that there remained a debt of $1300 for removing the old church, grading and other expenses. He also reported a sum on deposit in the savings bank of $1250.87 toward the new organ that the church hopes soon to order. It is understood that the new instrument will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $2000. Mrs. Samuel Wilcox of Kauai sent a check recently for $500 toward the organ fund.

At the same meeting Mrs. Elena Williams, the treasurer of the Women's Guild connected with the church, showed receipts for the year as $1195.83 and expenditures as $1041.80.

Carpenters Enjoy Boom.
The carpenters in central Maui have all they can do to keep up with the work of the contracts that have been assigned in different parts of Maui. Work is waiting in many quarters until men can be obtained. J. A. Ahong, contractor for the new sanatorium in Kula, expects to be through the work in one month, but he has been hard pressed because he could not get enough men. The new sanatorium will be 70 feet by 42 feet in ground dimensions. As soon as this building is completed Ahong will begin on the extension to the Mahulani hospital in Wailuku.

Personal.

ALBERT WOLTER

DOOMED TO DIE.

SING SING, N. Y., January 25.—Albert W. Wolter, slayer of Ruth Wheeler, will be put to death in the electric chair in the prison here Monday, January 29. Fifteen-year-old Ruth Wheeler was garrotted till senseless and then burned to death on March 24, 1910, at Wolter's rooms, 224 East Seventy-first street, New York city. After a trial of five days Wolter was convicted April 27, the same year. On various pretexts the date of execution postponed repeatedly. Last December the court of appeals decided that Wolter "was fairly tried and justly convicted and the judgment should be affirmed."

DOWN AT HALEIWA.

There is a particular calm about Haleiwa on a moonlight night. The automobile, in the rent service, being a part of the hotel equipment, is at the call of the guests for a night drive around the country as well as a daylight drive through the pineapple plantations. The regular monthly full moon dance is also a feature of life at Haleiwa that is enjoyed by the transient as well as the permanent guest. It is everything for the comfort of the patrons and the result is highly satisfactory. The trains on the O. R. & L. go to the entrance of the hotel grounds.

Honolulu. He looks as if he had been in a prizefight, but as long as he is all right, people don't care how much bandaged he is.

Library Acquisition.
The Maui Aid Association, which had in its possession for the ministers of central Maui some 300 theological books, many of them of great value as new books in the theological literature of the day, has placed the entire library at the new Maui Library Association rooms, so that the books may be easily accessible to the ministers and evangelists of central Maui.

Basketball.
Basketball has been the rage at the Wailuku gymnasium lately. The team calling themselves "The Blacks" has been winning over "The Whites" in the last three games played. Some of the halves were very close, but "The Blacks" finally won out.

Miss Mary Hoffman was captain of "The Blacks", and her team was as follows: Mary Hoffman and Hannah Cummings, forwards; Louisa Hart and Bellina Gonzales, centers; Irma Wodehouse and Leilani Weight, guards. Miss Carrie Schultz was captain of The Whites and her side was composed as follows: Carrie Schultz and Julia Silva, forwards; Deborah Myer and Ella Grove, centers; Keilani Wilcox and Ah Choy Ahu, guards. The second game played on Tuesday night was 20 to 17 and on Wednesday night 18 to 11.

GERMAN PAPER CRIES FOR WAR

BERLIN, January 28.—Die Post, the organ of the German war party, in a leading article about the Kaiser's birthday, which was celebrated throughout the country yesterday, urges his majesty to end the fatherland's enervating era of peace and lead it forward to new deeds and new goals.

"Only the diversion of a great war," says Die Post, "can arouse the best powers of the nation and subjugate the inferior qualities which find expression in the socialist election victories. Germans have never thrived while enjoying eventless peace."

"The German nation never yet refused loyally to follow the kings and emperors, especially along paths that lead to heights. Even though 4,000,000 misguided citizens voted for the party which would dethrone the Kaiser and destroy the monarchy, the kernel of the nation remains true to the sovereign."

COUNT IN STEERAGE WITH MONOCLE AND SPATS.
NEW YORK, January 27.—Count Paul Keglewich, a distinguished looking Austrian, mystified the immigration authorities yesterday when he arrived as a steerage passenger on a German liner with 1000 crowns in his pocket and a monocle in his eye. To make sure that the money was good and that the nobleman was not likely to become a charge on the city, the immigration inspector intimated that a visit to Ellis Island was desirable.

"It will make a change from the steamer, and I'm glad to go," was the only comment made by Count Paul.

He had been regarded with awe by his fellow voyagers, who were not accustomed to men wearing monocles, spats, silk waistcoats and kid gloves.

The Count was asked why he had traveled steerage and why he had come to New York.

"One gets tired of society at times," he said, "so I thought I'd have a look at some of my poorer brothers and their families. A change is good and the experience gives me something to think about."

As soon as he was released and reached the battery he hailed a taxi-cab and drove to an expensive uptown hotel.

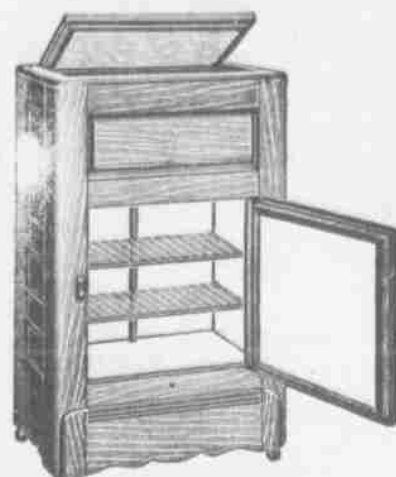

SUFFRAGETTE WOULD MAKE HARCOURT'S LIFE MISERABLE

LONDON, January 27.—Lewis Harcourt, who is Secretary of State for the Colonies, reiterated his opposition to woman's suffrage, and the head of the deputation declared that the women of Great Britain would do all in their power for his discomfort. His broad, she said, was buttered and he had no sympathy for the working women.
